To Whom This May Concern,

My name is Jaime Salazar, I am a Senior Backend Developer in Madrid and I'm interested in the position of Senior Software Engineer at Mozilla.

Please feel free to browse my CV, featuring several years of experience in backend development, primarily with Django and Azure Functions, as well as within the broader Python ecosystem. In every project I have always advocated for the best practices, maintaining clean code, testing it thoroughly, and delivering it smoothly. These days I don't just instill these principles in my colleagues, I now demand the same from my AI coding assistants! I believe I can contribute this mentality to the teams at Mozilla.

In addition, I can demonstrate a native level of English speaking and writing due to my academic trajectory and work experience abroad.

I look forward to a conversation where I can present my qualifications in greater detail, as well as learn more about this position at Mozilla.

Thank you for your consideration,

Jaime Salazar Lahera
